The following is one of the most remarkable compositions ever published. It evinces an ingenuity of arrangement such as we have never seen before. Explanation: The initial capitals spell, "My boast is in the glorious Cross of Christ." The worlds in italies, when read from top to bottom and from bottom to top, form the Lord's Prayer complete:

It was the Spring of 18—, that I found myself gliding upon the waters of the nig'ty Mississippi, and bound for New Orleans.

With a single exception, I had formed no travelling acquaintance on board the boat, although I had been nearly two days upon my journey, which was becoming somewhat monotonous. The individual with whom I, singularly enough, fraternized, seemed, like myself, to have but little inclination to extend his acquaintance among the passengers, though he seemed to be constantly upon the lookout for some one, and from the close manner in which he regarded the operations of two or three of those individuals whose profuse display of vest chains and jewelry, and proficiency with cerds at the tables in the saloon, betrayed their profession, I more than once set him down as some sort of police detective, in disguise.

He called himself George Thorn, of Kentucky; so his card read, which he gave me in exchange for mine. In truth, he was a noble specimen of the Corneracker State. Full six feet in height, a clear, intelligent blue eye, broad forehead, and light curly hair, muscular arm, and the chest of a Hercules, he challenged the admiration of more than one of the passengers, as, with his scrious and never smiling face, he paced the promenade deck, or sat apparently buried in thought in the saloon.

"Do you never play at cards?" said I

Never having witnessed anything of the kind, both I and my friend assented and, after a short walk, found ourselves within the precinets of one of those glittering and gorgeously-furnished establishments—vestibules to the infernal regions—where men are engaged in various games of hazard.

The interior of a gaming house has been too frequently described to need repetition. The fare bank, with its crowd of visitors; the rouge et noir table, with its anxious circle, and groups of players at other games, of which I was ignorant of the name, were all busily engaged as we entered. We had passed through two apartments and reached a third, in which were but four players, playing in pairs at different tables. As we entered, we sat down at an unoccupied table for a moment, when, as we did so, we heard one of the two men nearest to us say to his opponent:

"That's the last dollar; luck is yours, and I'm cleaned out."

"So it seems," said the other.

"But I hope to meet you again, sir, for I must have my revenge, after so heavy a run of luck as this," said the other.

"But you wear a gold ring," said his opponent. "See'l will give you a chance for revenge. I'll back my ring against yours on the next game. It's a ring I won at play from a Kentucky boy that came to New Orleans to see the sights," said he, carelessly.

How little did he know those words, so lightly spoken, had sealed his doom.

"No!" said his opponent, rising. "I'll meet you to-morrow night; I won't pledge my jewelry yet."

As the player, who was sitting with back partially towards us, mentioned Kentucky in his conversation, I saw Thorn listen with eagerness, and, as he twisted the ring he offered to bet upon his finger, I saw the Kentuckian turn deadly pale. His cycs glowed like fire for an instant, then his countenance again assumed its usual calm and placid look, and, to our awazement, he rose and walking across the apartment to the player, who had just been left by his companion, courteously proposed to try a hand or two with him, if agreeable, and if we, his friends, would excuse him for a short time. Of course we assented—and so did the gambler, who appeared at first somewhat surprised at the proposition, but probably resolved to try his skill upon the new comer.

The pards were dealt and the game proceeded. We were sufficiently near to see that the piece of gold which constituted the first stake was won by our friend's opponent; so also was the second. The third stake Thorn gained. And thus they went on, alternately winning and losing, till at last Thorn carclessly observed:

"That is a pretty ring you offered to bet a while ago, stranger; will you sell it?"

Thus what is all this to me?" said the gambler, over the speaker. "Is at a wind, and the gamber and the game proceeded. We were sufficiently near to see that the piece of gold which constituted the first stake was won by our friend's object the first stake was won by our friend's object. "I must confess," said Thorn, "that I am not of a convivial or musical turn, though I can occasionally tell a good story. I have a little history now, sir, upon my tongue's end, that will be of uncommon interest to you."

"To me! Pray, tell it, sir!' said the gamester, with a laugh. It will be a wind up for the evening's entertainment."

It was now long past midnight. Absorbed in the excitement of the game, we had scarcely noticed the flight of time, or that the adjoining rooms were now nearly deserted by their occupants, and that the other two players, at the other end of the apartment in which we were, had finished their own game long since, and had been spectators of that hetwoen Thorn and his spectators of that hetwoen Thorn and his

The country lying between Manehester and London, appears to the traveller, while whirling along at the rate of 40 or 45 miles per hour, to be dotted here and there with cities and villages, and that part devoted to agriculture is under a high state of cultivation. Roots are more extensively raised there than in America, in fact they compose a large portion of the crops. An absence of all kinds of fruits is noticed. We found afterwards, that the South of England produces most of the fruits found in the markets of the cities of the United Kingdom. The "Devonshire cider" is as familiar to all as household words.

The Midland and the Great North Western Railroads, are the principal lines from Manchester to London; both are desirable, but the former is to be preferred, as it passes through Sheffield, the seat of the well known cutlery manufactories, and other noted cities and towns.

On Saturday night, in the month of June, we arrived at the Charing Cross Hotel, finished in 1865, an immense structure situated on the busy thoroughfare called the "Strand," in the open space called Charing Cross, which takes its name from the old village of Charing, where stood a cross creeted by Edward I. Until the great London Exposition, in 1852, the hotels of this metropolis were surpassed by New York and Paris, both in size and elegance. But since that date some elegant and mammenth hotels have been built adjoining the railway termini, so that the tourist only has to pass from the lower saloon of the label to the car in an adjoining apartment. The following railway first class hotels are jotted down for the benefit of those who are projecting a tour abroad: The Liston and Victoria Hotels, near Euston terminus; the Great Northern Hotel, at the Paddington terminus; the Great Northern Hotel, and the Westminster Palace Hotel, at the Paddington terminus; the Great Morthern Hotel, and the Westminster Palace Hotel, victoria street, near the renowned Westminster Abby. Passing through Temple Bar, down the Strand, to Trafalgar Square, on that same night, Nelson's Column, with a bronze statue of that naval fighter surmounting it, (the whole 180 feet in height) appeared grand on that calm June evening.

St. Paul's and Nelson's Monument should be seen at first by moor-light. But a calm, bright evening, in old England is appreciated both by natives and foreigners, as the damp and foggy atmosfiphere is the rule rather than the exception. Of the Dissenting Chaples in London, by far the most remarkable, is Mr. Spurgen's Tabernacle, built at a cost of about £30,000 or $150,000, at Newington, on the sunny side of the river Thames, near the gilt Elephant and Castle, situated in front of a hotel close at hand. It stands about a mile from the Westminster and Waterloo bridges, and may be reached by the Metropolitan Railway, or by omnibus, eah, and Hansom.

Three tiers of galleries surround the preacher's platform, which is brought out and boat 75 feet from the farther end of the building, so that the congregation is one overy side of the preacher. Spurgeon's stand is about 20 or 25 freet high from the ground floor, and is surrounded by a malogany railing, being the continuation of the railings of the two circular stairs ways leading to it; an absence of a pulpit is noticed, and only a small sofa, table and a chair for the precentor are visible.

About 10 feet below the preacher, a platform for about 60 men and women, singers is situated; these choristers with the precentor lead in the congregational singing. Although there is no organ, the blending of seven or eight thousand voices in rich harmony was truly grand beyond description.

A WRINKLE ABOUT THE AGE OF HORSES.

A short time ago we met a gentleman from Illinois, who gave us a piece of ing formation in regard to ascertaining the ago of a horse, after he or she has passed the ninth year, which was new to us, and will be, we are sure, to most of our readers. It is this: After the horse is nine years old, a wrinkle comes on the cyclid at the upper corner of the lower lid, and every year thereafter he has one well-defined wrinkle for each year over nine. If for instance, a horse has three wrinkles, he is twelve; if four, he is thirteen. Add the number of wrinkles to nine, and you will always get it. So says the gentleman; and he is confident it will never fail. As a good many people have horses over nine, it is easily tried.

TOMATOES.—The tomato crop on the Peninsula is attaining the importance it deserves. At Round Top, a few miles from Crumpton, in Queen Anne's County, Messrs. Morton & Harris intend this year to plant two hundred acres of their extensive farm with tomatoes, which they intend to preserve in cans. They have eight hundred acres in peach trees, and should there be an average crop of peaches, they will require to creet a new canning house for the tomatoes, as their present extensive buildings will be no more than enough for the peaches, the entire crop being preserved in cans. They expect to employ at least six hundred hands, and should the yield be large, one thousand will be reyield be large, one thousand will be re-

NEW PLAN FOR RAISING POTATORS.—A correspondent gives the following as his plan for raising potatoes: Plow your ground deeply, harrow down smooth, mark out three feet apart, drill or plant in hills as you like, cover shallow with dirt on top of which place straw (if partly rotted all the better) ten or twelve inches thick. You have now nothing to do in the potato patch until digging time, when you raise the straw and take out the potatoes, which will be found in large yield, and nice and clean.

TESTIMONIALS.

RETHINONIALS.

RUTHERIOR, QueenAnne's Co. Md.

I have used Townsend's Wheel Cultivator this season in the cultivation of my corn crop with excellent results. For thorough tillage! think it one of the best implements! have ever used or seen; it certainly is a great machine, doing the work of two Cultivators, thereby saving the board and wages of one hand.

CHARLES K. MORRIS.

I have used one of Townsend's Wheel Cultivas.

HEAD OF SASAFRAS, Kent County, Md.

I have used one of Townsend's Wheel Cultivaors this season withercat satisfaction. As a laorsaving Machine it has no equal—hilling the orn up beautifully, and leaving the land in good condition for the eat crop to follow.

E. SHEPHERD MORRIS.

HEAD OF SASSAFRAS, Md. Nov. 19th, 1866. Mr. James Townsend, Dear Sir.—I used one your Patent Cultivators in tilling my corn, ad I was very much pleased with its work, and recommend them to any farmer that has twenty res of corn to till.

When through the darkand stormy night
The wayward wanderer homeward flies,
How cheering is that twinkling light,
Which through the forest gloom he spice It is the light of home. He feels
That loving hearts will greet him there,
And safely through his boson, steals
The joy and love that banish care
Around the light at home.

The light at home, how still and sweet

It peeps from yonder cottage door,
The weary laborer to greet,
When the rough toils of day are o'er!
Sad is the soul that does not know
The blessings that the beams impart,
The cheerful hopes and joys that flow,
And lighten up the heaviest heart
Around the light at home.

The Flight of Birds.

We suppose it is not generally known what speed birds can attain when on the wing; but some of them cleave the air with almost incredible swiftness. Humboldt says the condor soars to an elevation of twenty-eight thousand feet, from whence he would be able to overlook Great Britain—and then again in a few minutes darts down to the level of the sea. The albatross, quietly facing the gale, bids defiance to the fury of the unshackled storm. The frigate-bird, though frequently met with at the distance of four hundred leagues, or twelve hundred miles at sea, is said to return every night to his solitary land roost. The carrier pigeon has been known to travel in less than six hours from London to Leige, in Belgium. Tealducks have been shot by sportsmen in the waters of Canada with rice from the fields of the Gulf States still undigested in their crops. To perform such flights these birds have been gifted with enormous spread of wing. Thus the pinions of the albatross extend from ten to thirteen feet, and those of the frigate-bird and condor measure even more from tip to tip.

frigate-bird and condor measure even more from tip to tip.

The tiny humming bird, though generally averse to long migrations, darts from flower to flower with such velocity that the most attentive observer is unable to distinguish the rapid vibrations of its wings which seem to be in a state of rest.

Two hundred miles per hour would appear to be beyond the power of any bird to compass; yet there is every reason to believe that the frigate-bird can sustain this tremendous rate of speed for hours at a time.

The Metropolitan Church, at Washington

The Metropolitan Church, at Washington.

The great Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, at the Capital, is approaching completion. It will be by far the most superbehaved wowned by the Methodists undertook to rear a national church at the capital. The gigantic enterprise of securing $225,000 was undertaken. Rev. Mr. De Hass was assigned to this work. He has already collected $200,000. The church has three hundred pews. The pulpit furniture is made of wood brought from lands of sacred associations: Gethaemane, the Mount of Olives, and Lebanon make their contributions. The vestibule is to be paved with the marble which once graced the portice of Solomon's Temple. A pew, gorgeously fitted up, is assigned to the President. Pews of lesser magnificence are appropriated to the Vice President and Speaker of the House. Every State in the Union has a pew assigned to it, and the heads of departments are not forgotten. The church is to be opened on the last Sunday in February. the Sunday preceding the inauguration of Gen. Grant. Bishop Simpson is to preach the dedication sermon, and Mr. Punshon, the eloquent Englishman, will preach in the afternoon.

THE FIRST SETTLESS .- Northern writer have furnished our school books and his-tories long enough. They have related the story of the Pilgrim Fathers with such great length and nice particularity that many of our children think that the Ply-mouth colony was not only first in point of importance, but first in point of time. Such is not the fact. It is our duty to sorrect the error. Virtue is not a com-modity; but if it were, we do not think the puritans used it all up. There is some left.

The English made a permanent settlement at Jamestown, Virginia, in 1607.

The Dutch settled on the spot where New York now stands in 1618; and a Dutch governor presided over this settlement in governor presided over this settlement in 1614. The Puritans landed on Plymouth Rock just as the year 1620 expired. So the Jamestown colony was on the soil of the New World thirteen years before the

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS

Hoofland's German Tonic. The Great Remedies for all Diseases of th LIVER, STOMACH, OR DIGESTIVE ORGANS.

Is composed of the pure julces (or, as they as medicinally termed Extracts) of Roots, Herb and Barks, making a preparation, highly concestrated, and entirely freefrom all alcoholic admixtus of any fame.

Hoofland's German Tonic Is a combination of all the ingredients of the Bitters, with the purest quality of Santa Cruz Rum. Orange, &c. making one of the most pleasant and agreeable remedies ever offered to the public.

Those preferring a Medicine free from Alcuholic admixture, will use

Hoofland's German Bitters.

Those who have no objection to the combon of the Bitters, as stated, will use HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC

tion of the Bitters, as stated, with use

neys, and all Diseases arising from a disordered Liver Stomach or Intestines.

DEBILITY.

Resulting from any cause whatever; prostration of the system, induced by severe labor, hardsines, exposure, fevers &c.

There is no medicine extant equal to these remedies in such cases. A tone and vigor is imparted to the whole system, the appetite is strength-end, food is enjoyed, the stomach digests properly, the blood is purified, the complexion becomes sound and healthy, the yellow tinge is eradicated from the eyes, a bloom is given to the checks, and the weak and nervous invalid becomes a strong and healthy belien. Persons advanced in life and feeling the hand of time weighing heavily upon them, with all is attendant lils, will find in the use of this Bitters, or the Tonic, an leitzr that will instill new life into their veins, restore in a measure the cancry and ardor of more youthful days, build up their shrunken forms, and give health and happiness to their remaining years.

NOTICE.

NOTICE.

NOTICE.

It is a well established fact that fully one-half of the female portion of our population are seldom in the enjoyment of good health, or, to use their own expression, "never feel well." They are languid, devoid of all energy, extremely nervous, and have no appetite.

To this class of persons the Bitters, or the Tonic is especially recommended.

WEAK AND DELICATE CHILDREN Are made strong by the use of either of thes remedies. They will cure every case of Maras nus without fail.

TESTIMONIALS.

Hon. Geo. W. Woodward,

Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pa., writes: Philodelphia, March 16, 1867. "I find Hoofland's German Bitters is a good tonic, useful in the diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in cases of debility, and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly, GEO, W. WOODWARD."

Hon. James Thompson,

Judge of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvenia.

Philadelphia, April 28, 1866.

I consider "Hooftand's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of Indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my experience of it. Yours, with respect, JAMES THOMPSON.

Pastor of the Tenth Baptist Church, Philadelphia,
Dr. Jackson,—Dear Sir: I have been frequently requested to connect my name with recommendations of different kinds of modicines, but regarding the practice as out of my appropriate sphere, I have in all cases declined; but with a clear proof in various insuraces, and pastfroofland's German Bitters, I depart for once from my usual course, to express my full conviction that, for general debiting of the system, and expecially for Liver Complaint, it is a safe and exhaushed praparation. In some cases it may full, but usually, I doubt not, it will be very beneficial to those who suffer from the above causes.

Yours, very respectfully.
